

Q17. PARENTING AND CARING.

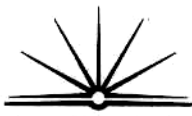

A. The social changes they may experience, are not being able to go out with their friends anymore or not getting invited because they now have other responsibilities and a child to care for.

B. Culture and religion are a huge influence on parenting and caring because sometimes and your partner if you don't come from the same culture or religion your family will sometimes disown you or force you to breakup with your partner and if you have a child together you can even be made or forced to give it away. Most of the cultures and religion want you to come from the same culture or from the same religion as your partner and if not then you aren't apart of them. This can be a huge strain on the children as they grow up going through school and work and also the way they are being brought up. By getting teased & getting discriminated against.

C. Parents have huge responsibilities in the way they bring up their children. If they ~~do~~ make just one little mistake they can end up in jail or have their children taken off them by social services.

Every child is brought up differently even if they come from the same family if the parent/s or carer/s have made a mistake or gone about something the wrong way they can learn by that and bring the second child/ren up a bit different, but still share the same interests, values, needs & wants as the other child/ren.

most people learn by their mistakes which is good

~~at~~ most of the time.
