

I have learned from this module that dialogue is a very important part of society, that it shapes our perceptions and ideas. Everyone uses different types of dialogue for example the truckie in "hillston welcome" by Komninos compared to the youths in "diary of a residency" also by Komninos, the youths swear alot and continually ask the same question without forming new ideas, whereas the truckie comes to his conclusions due to what he is seeing, and asks his questions based on these conclusions. His questions are in a much more straight forward he tells the poet what he thinks and and the dialogue he uses makes it easy for the poet to understand him "I thought you were a ^{truckie} ~~trike~~, but i looked out the front and there was no truck, so what are ya."

Dialogue is used everyday by everyone and without it we would have no communication at all.
