

~~Dear~~ To: earthwatch@cyber24.com

I recently came across your website and found it very interesting. I come from a small bush town in mid-Australia. For thousands of years my family would walk hours to access food and necessary products. Today however it is much different. We still have little access to transport but are able to use telephones and the internet to make orders, deliveries and communicate with other locals.

I am proud of our rise in technology as it has improved ~~many~~ the lifestyle of many families. We still have family traditions passed through each generation just like the Inuit people of Canada, and we too endure the use of cyberspace.

We hunt down kangaroo's, duck's and yabbi's to put food on the table, but occasionally we receive ~~sausages and~~ ~~pies to keep us going~~ varieties of fruit from the nearest town to keep up our nutrition.

I love the way I can communicate to relatives on the other side of the country and I look forward to more changes in society to increase our happy way of life.

Thank you for sharing with the world your experiences in Canada, I look forward to learning more about changes occur across the world.
