

Question 1:

a) There are differences between ~~the~~ schooling in Kimberley area and in Melbourne. One of the differences is the uniforms Kimberley people wear are more casual than the strictly formality in Melbourne school and also no one seems to be stressed.

b) The word "this" refers to wander the streets as the teenagers do in Broome. Indeed it was fun to wander for one night.

c) ~~The writer herself doesn't really~~ The direct quotation shows what's the Aborigines think of the white people who didn't accept them as part of the community and tend to target them. The storyteller ~~he~~ didn't care what the white people did to them and felt that even they hated the white people, they will only feel sick inside their heart.

d) The girls finally realised a better understanding of indigenous matters. They also felt that in the future of conciliation lies in the hands of today's youth and they wanted to share their days and experiences with the Aborigines to the community. This can reduce the critics of Aborigines by the white people's thoughts.

e) In Day 7, the writer used descriptive language enabling us to know how the activities were going on. This is easier for the writer to deliver her message in this way. In Day 23, the language used is more of an emotive type because she started to show her perspective about the discrimination of the Aborigines. Besides that, we can easily see what the writer tried to tell us about the tasks by using clear and simple language.
