In Japan the male is more dominant to the female the female has to do basically as the males says then when they have children and it is a male the mother or female has to listen to them. In Japan to greet somebody they will bow to someone that is higher than them. It is also polite for when you meet someone to hand them a business card...

Males are the ones that go to work but the females have to stay at home take care of the children but as the world is changing the females are also going to work.
