

SECTION II - QUESTION 7

EQUALITY + DIFFERENCE.

A. The effects of technology, discrimination and socioeconomic status on ~~the~~ access to socially valued resources differentiates between varied things.

Technology is the main operation in our world today. The world and all its countries have become technologically ~~more~~ enhanced and rely on machinery and computers to attend and ~~assist~~ assist them in everyday life activities.

Technology though is not accessible to different people due to cultural teachings or government policies. Eg.

in Afghanistan, women are deprived from the right to have any technological resources, due to the strict ruling they have been placed under. They have no quick ~~over~~ access to gain any information compared to an Australian woman, who probably has ~~at~~ a technological advanced computer at home or at work, where everyday resource is gained and informed about. Socially it is acceptable for an Australian woman to live her life in society, the way in which a male would live, but this is the ~~new~~ difference in equality in ~~when~~ ~~again~~ Afghanistan, where equality is not practiced and social differentiation is exposed, along with ~~discrimination~~ discrimination.

Discrimination is the differences shared among individuals through either race, religion or just different likes. Discrimination is a huge factor in our world today, as people are becoming ~~more~~ ~~less~~ in humane by only the perception they receive. Judgment is placed upon groups, rather than on individuals and many people get hurt. The effects of discrimination on access to socially valued resources has ~~on~~ a lot of biased opinions placed into the situation. Eg. The Afghanistan woman culturally accept the treatment they are pressured under, as it is commonly known to them that this is the only way of life. They yet do not understand that they are being discriminated against and are losing all rights as an individual. The effect of this discrimination only lowers their knowledge and education when it comes to teaching and learning the modernising factors in our world. They are robbed of the right to have equal knowledge and participation in the resources available to them.

Socio economic status is where an individual is placed within society depending on his or hers wealth and income.

Today in society there is always a ~~batter~~ battle and a fight, for people wanting to be wealthier than others. This is a common factor though, one which had arisen through history. The effects of socio-economic status on access to socially valued sources all depends on the wealth. With no money, people can get nowhere. Money is the world's most biggest problem which only cause damage to people and its environment. With no income this places a status of "poor" or "unrich" upon a person, leaving them with nothing and only being rejected by society. To gain sources people need to have money so they can advance.
