The country that I have studied, Vietnam has many traditions and customs that are followed. However, the one I will be discussing is the tradition of festivals and gathering to celebrate and remember people and places that may not still be available today. Although the festivals themselves have not actually changed all that dramatically, both the type of and number of festivals ~~is~~ has changed. Festivals are now a lot more common and celebrated a lot more frequently, sometime almost religiously. This is a result of a change in the amount of interest shown and the people willing to participate.
