In China, there is the (ICP) 1 child Policy, and that it has to be a boy child that is being born. Since 1979, the child policy has kept couples to having no more than one child, and the consequences they go through if being a girl. It has said to be that there are more boys than girls, giving the boys to be at least alone, or being in between two girls. The conflict theory of China with the one child policy has had families move countries, or live in the world with conflict.
