Question 13 - Belief Systems

a) Vietnam is a country that has many traditions such as the way they celebrate Christmas or the God they believe in "Allah".

Vietnamese people are very different to other cultures as they have different beliefs, values and cultural differences.

A lot of things, such as their values ~~with~~ are a continuity of the society. They have always believed in the same God and continued to respect their culture and follow their belief system.

B)

Not everyone in the world will ever believe in the same God, have the same culture or beliefs or will they value the same things in the society.

So Globalisation of this Belief system has had the Vietnamese questioning their beliefs and their culture. Globalisation has had some effect which has caused change in the society, such as how they treat the women in their society.

Since Globalisation of the Vietnamese culture, they have been able to ~~them~~ be more open about their culture and belief system.

Even though Globalisation has changed some cultural traditions of the Belief System, it has also forced continuity onto the way their belief system was portrayed.

Once people had an idea of ~~how~~ ~~they~~ their beliefs ~~and~~ it was hard for them to change it or ~~the~~ the way they did things in their culture, because that was the way everyone in the outside world saw it.
