

Start here.

Belief systems: Hinduism

c) Hinduism itself is a very peaceful religion, they believe in karma, which is doing good things in life as they will be repaid for those deeds. Although it is a peaceful religion, it has caused conflict around the world, just like most belief systems do.

It's not ~~the~~ usually the beliefs of Hinduism but the stereotypes people hold over it that causes debate in the world.

Hinduism has caused a lot of ~~conflict~~^{outrage} with the views they hold over women, especially with marriage traditions such as the Dowry. The Dowry is ~~the~~ a sum of money that the brides ~~etc~~ parents pay to the groom and his family for 'taking the daughter off their hands'. In westernised views this seems sexist and outrageous but ~~Hinduis~~ see it as an investment so that their daughter has a legitimate place in her new family. The issue is that the dowry can fluctuate in price depending on ~~what~~ whom she's marrying, so the family may not be able to afford to marry off their daughter. This can be seen as a reason why there is such discrimination and inequality amongst females + males. This has been known to cause major conflict as it's not a westernised view + tradition.

Because of Hindu's ~~view~~ belief that people are at one with god, and their belief in ~~harmony~~ karma ~~and~~ Hinduism can be a very peaceful religion, as they believe they need to do good to get ~~it~~ good things in return and move up the social classes they do a lot of peaceful things in the world.

Because of the ~~me~~ prejudice against women in India, Hindu's get the blame as 85% of India is Hindu, thus society places a stereotype of all ~~the~~ people of that belief even though they're actually quiet calm and reasonable.

Additional writing space on back page.