"We may have different religions, different language or different coloured skin but we all belong to one human race" Koffi Annan.

Every society consist a rang of different people and groups, who are classifed by their age, gender, religion and ethnic group. The multiculturalism society of Australia has people from 100 different background. This would make an inequality between them. If this inequalities stay the same, there would some problems between the groups within the society.

Australia is a country with different people who have a different religion and culture. The Australian government after 1970 allowed people to follow their own culture & beliefs, and more migrant came to Australia. This made Australia as a multi-culturalism country. The acceptance of these ~~can~~ different culture, ~~and~~ values, and beliefs is difficult. An example of this, after the terrorist attack ~~at~~ in ~~the~~ 11.9.2001 to New York, there were alot attact. to the mosque in Australia. And people even burn one of them in Brisban. ~~The~~ A mother of two Australian born but converted to Islam said, she has to move from

From where she lives, because the Australian Security Intelligence Organisation came to her house. They point gun at her and force her down to the floor. She wants to move from where she lives because her neighbours think they all terrorist. This <sup>shows the</sup> inequalities between the religions that if stays the same, it will create a lot of problems either for individuals or for society.

The other good example is the Cornallu beach, where was a big fight between the Middle Eastern Australian and Australian people who live there. The different culture and how people responds to it, is hard to control but Australian government find a way to control this inequality.

The other inequality is the people who living in the rural area. They have less access to the information and technology. The rate of school drop out is increasing between the students (11,12) in the rural areas. They have lower class life, they mostly the new arrivals or the Aborigines. However, the ~~at~~ Kevin Rudd government by giving the laptops to the students help this inequality. This inequality would make a large differences between our people and should not stay the same. We might have a lot of people with low degree or even uneducated. Then our society will be unhealthy and behind from others.

The next inequality which happens in our society, is with disable people. The paralympic showed us that our disables can reach and achieve their goals. They make Australia proud. Then the government should put attention on them and give them a better life. ~~Give~~ The parking spot and financial helping to those who employed them ~~is an~~ are the example of what government did. But still government needs to help them and improve the inequalities. Other why's our disable generation and people will be upset and be case of ~~suicid~~ suicides and kill themselves. This would be really bad for <sup>our</sup> society.

The impact of maintaining existing inequalities for the Australian society are underpinned of different ~~white~~ system, culture, racial and disability. These ~~maintaining~~ creating a lot of conflict and make our society look bad.
