10   A software developer produces database applications for small businesses operating in a changing environment. What is an appropriate software development approach they would use?

   (A)   Structured approach

   (B)   End-user development

   (C)   Event-driven approach

✓ (D)   Rapid applications development

Question 10 : % answers correct by band range