Buddhism is considered to be one of the most peaceful religions throughout history. A Buddhist like is not controlled by consumexistic goods and items, a buddhist simply times by 5 moral pecepts, the 8 fold path and the 4 noble truths. Allowing the buddhist to the a simple like without the needs of material goods. Buddhests are not controlled by the consumeristic world because they do not luie on desire due to desire being suffering (4 noble # truths). A buddhist learns that they most only take what they require from nature inorder for there to be enough to everyone to survive. This is identified in the Smood precepts, which illustrates that are must not take cintess of is required. Buddhist do not believe in using violence morder for them to retrieve what they have lost or desire. Instead they confront somes issues in a peaceful manner. This is evident in modern tunes when the Chinese government invaded

Tubet inorder to expand and to test nuclear weapons on the Tound. The XIV Dalai Lama did not use violence to vegain Tibet instead he scriply exiled to Indias with 80,000 other Buddhists. These actions highlight the simple native Buddhist have and their hezitation to have any select scentiant being". The 8 fold paths is an important aspect of Buddism because it illustrates. that the wrong doing of one person is able to have a negative impact on on others withen the community. Right speech is important because if one speaks talsely of others it then has a negative affect on those who they speak fasely of and reflects back on the individual. This can damage an individuals journey to Vivana and bring eugon bad karma for the next generation The treatment of nature is essential in buddhism due to the Kanna. As the Smoral precepts illustrate "Do not hours any scentiant being" If the individual follows there towa laws good Karma occurs for the individual and the community of the next generations. If the indevidual facts to follow these laws bad karma will come upon them or and have a later impact on the next generations. therefore, through the emphases of the quote "Buddhest just go simply" o Uscistrated through the 8 fold path, 4 noble truther and the 5 moval precepts, which autline the peaceful nature of a buddhist and the affects of Karma that can for the occurs in the next generations. It also is emphasized by the Buddhest living sumply and not taking what they derive and only what they require
