

~~with the question~~ the quote given is by one of if not the greatest leader that our army has seen. and his views on what people want to achieve in war is are highly highly veiwed and respected two religions i believe have a greater view on what it means to go to or not to go to war one both islam and the buddhist religions.

Islam first means peace and many people do not believe this but it is one of the most peacefull religions in the world next to the other religion ~~it~~ i have stated buddhism.

many people when they think of islam, September 11 2001, and the think of Iraq Iran but this is not islam this is a fraction of the that has broken off of the Main stream of Islam to become a more Radical Movement.

it is the islamic belief that you are not allowed to fight a war out side of your Country you must not ~~provide~~ provide the attack.

you can only defend your own land and believe that within the war in Afghanistan along with in Iraq and Iran the Islamic people that are caught up within these fights fights are just protecting their rights they are fighting for the right to be governed by them selves. and how General Peter Cosgrove had it "safe, secure and with the prospects of a better future." we now move from a religion that is surrounded by war to a <sup>Religion</sup> ~~Country~~ that has never been to a war which they have fought ~~it~~ back with guns and ~~shots~~ bullets.

Buddhists have a strong belief that war and fighting is not needed to figure <sup>out</sup> issues between two groups.

Under the watchful eye of the 14th Dalai Lama Tibet the ~~land~~ home of Buddhism was attacked by the Chinese and Buddhists were removed from the country the Dalai Lama did not fight back he called for peace and for the end of ~~the~~ unnecessary deaths that come across this people.

ever they wish and i believe that this is also what General Peter Cosgrove was saying in his quote when he said "populations caught up in war naturally want to stop, they want to live in peace" this is what Buddhist Right for giving their words they look for Justice. they look for growth they look for freedom.

all of the Buddhist left left Tibet and ~~unlike~~ moved to India which is the birth place of the first man to reach Nirvana and the creator of Buddhism he is now ~~then~~ known as Buddha.

The 14th Dalai Lama held meetings with pope John Paul the 2nd the president of the USA and other world leaders as trying to find out a way that they could find a way to stop all the fighting that happens through out the world.

It is not that the types of wars that have been fought by Buddhists over time have not been with guns or with knives and shields but they have been with words ~~they~~ in the form of the 14th Dalai Lama have seen going to war more years than I can remember and not so that they can be the largest religion in the world not so they can be been as a world power but so that every one not just of his own faith has the right to believe in what
