

Question 7.

b.

finally, citizens of Rome,, there are four kinds of men who have all dishonoured my family, first of them, who hate the republic, because they themselves conserve the life, they have all become very hostile towards me, the second type, who through friendly pretences wickedly use me for their own purposes, the third, who, when they are lazy are not able to do anything, but are envious of my dignity and praise worthiness, the fourth, who when they are able to guard the republic, my salvation, the state of the citizens, the dignity of their empire, they misuse it, because they are in possession of it.