

The importance of communication in the work place is so that jobs get done properly & safely. When communicated incorrectly instructions get skewed & accidents happen.

For example the job could be done wrong, therefore just wasted time & money doing the wrong job.

Also if things aren't explained properly injuries can occur. If someone was to use a drop saw but had never used it before. Without instructions they could cut off a finger or even their hand.