The Responsibilities to ensuring that all environmental Protection Regulations and guidelines come down to different types of government Authorities that make sure these regulations are carried out properly in the Automotive Workshop.

One of these includes the E.P.A which stands for Environmental, Protection, Authority. The EPA makes sure workplaces have the allocated requirements in ensuring environmental Protection.

The EPA may look for correct ventilation, bunding in spill zones, storage of waste oils and product also in a bonded containment area, grease traps in runoff storm water drains and also effective noise control and SOP storage on hazardous materials.

If fault is found with these compliances then severe harsh penalties may be imposed on the business and closed till further notice.
